This is the second Annual Report that outlines our progress in delivering the Policy.

Current Situation

The Annual Report is presented as Appendix 1. The action plan has progressed significantly since the last annual report with 10 actions now on track or complete and 2 actions showing some progress. There are no actions that are not progressing.

There were 23 engagement and consultation campaigns during 2023-24. This is seven more than last year.

The number of responses largely depends on the topic of the campaign, as shown by the graph on page 18 of the Annual Report.

The two actions that are rated as Amber (showing some progress) involve the development of an online engagement platform and improving the way that we feedback to those who have participated in our engagement and consultation campaigns. Plans are in place to progress this work. We anticipate that all actions will be on track or complete by the time the third annual report is produced, in Spring 2025.

Future Improvement work

The new My Account platform will help us to develop our online relationship with people who have expressed a specific interest in our consultations. We are also working on improvements to the Engagement and Consultation webpage so that people can see the results of their feedback more clearly.

The Engagement and Participation policy will be reviewed in 2025 and it is likely that the action plan will include a new set of actions. This will ensure that we continue to improve our practice.

Wellbeing of Future Generations:

Has an Integrated Impact Assessment been completed? If, not, please state why.

Ceredigion Engagement and Participation

Annual Report

2023-2024

This report outlines the work undertaken by the Council during 2023-24 to deliver our Engagement and Participation Policy.

Why Engage?

We adopted our Engagement and Participation Policy in October 2022. It sets out how we will talk and listen with all of those who live, work or study in Ceredigion, including people whose voices are seldom heard.

It's important that we listen to people in Ceredigion to hear about their own vision for their communities and about what they want in terms of service provision.

Our legal duty to consult is set out in various pieces of legislation, including:

- The Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015 – the Council must involve people with an interest in achieving the National Well-being goals.
- The Local Government and Elections (Wales) Act 2021 – the Council must encourage public participation in our decision making and to consult local people about the extent to which the council is exercising its functions effectively.
- The Welsh Language Measure 2011 – the Council must ask the public for their views on the impact that our decisions will have on the Welsh Language.
- The Equality Act 2010 – the Council must involve and engage with people who share Protected Characteristics.
- The Local Authorities' Traffic Orders (Procedure) (England and Wales) Regulations 1996 – the Council must consult with organisations specified in the Regulations and must inform people that are likely to be affected by a traffic order.
- School Standards and Organisation (Wales) Act 2013 – the Council must comply with the School Organisation Code which outlines the principles that should be taken into account when proposing to make changes to school provision.

It is not just about our legal duty, however. Engaging and consulting with the public gives us better information to help our decision making. This can lead to better outcomes for our residents.

What is Participation?

Participation is an approach to encourage the active involvement of people in a project, programme or activity. This can range from engagement, consultation through to collaboration and empowerment.

What is Engagement?

We may run a specific engagement campaign to gather additional views before developing a new plan or project that results in a change in service.

What is Consultation?

Consultations are typically used to gather people's thoughts on a draft plan or project that we have developed, particularly when it will result in a change in service.

Eleven engagement campaigns and twelve consultation campaigns were completed during 2023-24. There is more detail in Section 2 of this report. The Equalities and Inclusion team keeps a timetable of all the campaigns. This helps us to keep to a consistent approach when the campaigns are developed by the various teams across the council.

We also make sure that the results of campaigns are used to inform decisions taken by Elected Members. In 2023-24 Cabinet and full Council made eleven decisions which resulted in changes to a service, policy or strategy that would significantly impact on the public. Council officers prepare a report for Elected Members to help inform their decisions. 100% of the reports requiring this type of decision included a synopsis of the consultation carried out to help develop the proposed change. Details can be seen in the relevant report to Cabinet or Council, and these are all published on our website.

We take a 'continuous engagement' approach to developing our services. This involves regular meetings with specific stakeholders. For example, Ceredigion Youth Council, Disability Forum, Local Nature Partnership and the Carers forum. This is part of our approach to engagement and participation. It gives us a head start when we develop new services and strategies because we have been talking regularly with the people who have lived experience of the topic.

Our new Engagement Toolkit lists the mandatory stakeholders that must receive information about public consultations. The list includes Elected Members, Leadership Group, Town and Community Councils, Ceredigion County Council staff and members of Ceredigion Public Services Board. The toolkit also lists contact details of people who can help us to promote our consultations. For example, Ceredigion Family Centre Network, Young Farmers clubs and the Armed Forces Veterans Forum.

Analysis of engagement and consultation campaigns 2023-24

Percentage of campaigns that were statutory

Nearly all of the campaigns were fact finding, to inform a plan, strategy or service but over half were required by legislation – statutory. For example:

- Local Government and Election (Wales) Act 2021
- Housing Act (Wales) 2014
- The Equality Act 2010 (Statutory Duties) (Wales) Regulations 2011
- The Local Authorities' Traffic Orders (Procedure) (England and Wales) Regulations 1996
- Representation of the People Act 1983

Methods used to engage and present the information

All campaigns were available via an online survey, paper copies were often available.

8 campaigns involved focus groups or drop in events.

6 campaigns provided Easy Read versions of the information and 5 campaigns provided Large Print versions.

Ceredigion Youth Council have suggested that videos may be a good method. This format has not yet been tried.

Campaigns were publicised via a range of different methods. Most campaigns involved 3 or 4 methods.

The main methods utilised were emails targeted at specific stakeholders, social media posts and a press release.

Many council teams meet regularly with groups of stakeholders and have a ready made network of key stakeholders. These networks were used to help promote campaigns.

The majority of officers reported that they did feedback the results of their campaign with the public and named stakeholders.

The main method of feeding back the results was via the report made to Cabinet, which is publicly available on our website.

A small number of campaigns ended with a specific message to stakeholders to thank them for taking part and explaining the results and next steps.

This is an area for improvement.

Number of responses to engagement and consultation campaigns 2023-24

Conclusion

This is the second annual report on the progress we have made in delivering Ceredigion Engagement and Participation policy ‘Talking, Listening and Working Together’.

There were 23 engagement and consultation campaigns during 2023-24. This is seven more than last year. Four campaigns were regional. Three were run on behalf of the Growing Mid Wales board and covered Ceredigion and Powys. The engagement exercise that informed our Strategic Equality Plan was also regional, covering Ceredigion, Pembrokeshire, Powys and Carmarthenshire.

The number of responses depends on the topic of the campaign. There was a very high number of responses to our consultation on the level of council tax premiums payable on 2nd homes and long term empty properties – a very emotive subject. Conversely, the campaign to identify barriers faced by people who are not in Education, Employment or Training (NEET) received only 6 responses. This campaign was aimed at young people who are NEET, widely recognised as a very difficult group to engage with.

The Action Plan has progressed significantly since March 2023, as shown in the table below.

	2022-23	2023-24
Green – action is on track or complete	6	10
Amber – some progress is being made	5	2
Red – no progress is being made	1	0

The two actions that are rated as Amber (showing some progress) involve the development of an online engagement platform and improving the way that we feedback to those who have participated in our engagement and consultation campaigns. There are plans in place to progress this work. We anticipate that all actions will be on track or complete by the time the third annual report is produced, in Spring 2025.

Future Improvement work

The new My Account platform will help us to develop our online relationship with people who have expressed a specific interest in our consultations. We are also working on improvements to the Engagement and Consultation webpage so that people can see the results of their feedback more clearly.

The Engagement and Participation policy will be reviewed in 2025 and it is likely that the action plan will include a new set of actions. This will ensure that we continue to improve our practice.
